ABOUT QUINO

Read the following text and answer questions 1-3:

Joaquín Lavado Tejón, famous by his pen name Quino, was born in Argentina in 1932. He was son of Andalusians who emigrated to Argentina in 1919. Quino began studying Fine Arts in his hometown but he didn't finish his studies, then he started drawing comics and he published his first page in 1954, when he was 22. After that he continued to publish his cartoons, drawings and comic strips in newspapers and magazines in America and Europe. Quino became famous with his Mafalda comic strips. The first Mafalda comic strip was published in 1964 in Buenos Aires in a weekly magazine. In the Mafalda series, Quino reflected the world of adults from the point of view of a group of children. The most important character (Mafalda) was an intelligent, ironic and non-conformist girl, worried about peace and human rights, she hates soup and loves the Beatles. The stories of Mafalda have been translated into twenty-six languages and published in newspapers and magazines worldwide. Quino stopped drawing her in 1973. However, interest in Mafalda has continued right up to the present day, with re-editions of her books which are now available in e-book format. After he stopped drawing Mafalda, Quino devoted himself to a more sarcastic, black humour more for an adult audience. During the last years before his retirement, Quino published mainly in the daily newspaper Clarín. Quino received numerous awards, for example the Prince of Asturias award for Communication and humanities in 2014. Quino died in 2020 at the age of 88.
