THE SINKING OF THE TITANIC

In 1912 a British shipping company sent off a new ship called the 'Titanic'. It was the largest and most luxurious ocean liner of that time. It weighed 46,000 tons and could carry about 2,200 passengers. Experts said that nothing could sink it. On April 14 1912, the ship sailed on its first voyage across the Atlantic from Southampton in England to New York in the United States, with 2,228 passengers, men, women and children. On April 15, just before midnight, the ship struck an iceberg. One side of the ship was holed by the iceberg, and the unsinkable 'Titanic' began to sink.

There was great alarm on board. Warning bells rang out. Everyone rushed to the lifeboats, but there was not enough room for them all. There was room for only 1,178 passengers. The lifeboats took mostly the women and children. It was a terrible scene. The Titanic sent out signals for help, but no help came. Another ship, the 'Californian', was only twenty miles away, but her radio operator was asleep and did not hear the distress signals.

In the early hours of the morning the Titanic sank, while her band was playing bravely on deck. Twenty minutes later another liner, the 'Carpathia', arrived on the scene and helped to rescue survivors from the icy water. But of the 2,228 passengers, only about 700 survived.
