TEXT

Freddie Mercury's real name was Farrokh Bulsara. He was born on 5 September 1946 in Zanzibar, now part of Tanzania in Southeast Africa. His parents were Indian but they lived and worked in Zanzibar. They sent Farrokh to a British boarding school in India where he was educated from the age of eight to the age of sixteen. There, he learned to play the piano and he sang in a choir. His schoolmates called him Freddie and his parents started calling him Freddie too.

To escape the Zanzibar Revolution in 1964, at the age of eighteen, Freddie and his family moved to London. He studied graphic art and design at Ealing Art College. The band Queen formed in 1970 and he changed his surname from Bulsara to Mercury. Queen became one of the most successful British rock bands with number one albums, singles and DVDs all over the world.

Freddie Mercury loved opera. It had an important influence in his music. In 1975, he wrote the song Bohemian Rhapsody, from the album A Night at the Opera. It is one of Queen's most popular songs. It is almost 6 minutes long and it has an opera section. Bohemian Rhapsody is also the name of the 2018 movie about Freddie Mercury's life. In 1988, Mercury and the Spanish Opera singer, Montserrat Caballé, sang together in an album called Barcelona. The duet song Barcelona, a beautiful combination of opera and pop music, was the official song for the 1992 Olympics.

On 24 November 1991, at the age of forty-five, Mercury died of bronchial pneumonia, as a consequence of AIDS. At the Opening Ceremony of the 1992 Olympics, Montserrat Caballé sang the song Barcelona live and Freddie Mercury's part was played on a screen.
